

Texas Posse
Ends Career Of Wild Gunman

SHAMROCK, Tex., Dec. 2 (AP) — A posse captured a trigger-happy gunman today crouched near the slug-torn body of his slain half-brother to climax a sweeping man-hunt that kept this Texas-Oklahoma border area in turmoil all night.

The pair — no one knew which individual — earlier killed a rancher's teen-age son who was a posseman, and wounded two officers.

The slain gunman was identified by Texas state police and Rangers as Junior Bard Myers, with numerous aliases, including Robert Earl Hunter and Robert Meyers. He was 32 and was from Greeley, Colo. He had a long arrest record in the Southwest and on the West coast.

The captured gunman gave the name of James William Whitehead, 21, Phoenix, Ariz. Officers said he also went under the name of James Hunter. They said he apparently had no record. He recently was discharged from the Marine Corps.

Killed yesterday while hunting the pair was Victor Lee Stephens, 19, son of a ranch owner.

The two were trapped during the night in a 1,200-acre area of scrubby brush, called "shinney" in the Southwest. It was at that time that young Stephens was slain.

Officers decided to wait until daylight to hunt the dangerous pair. At that time, possemen assumed both were living.

The climax came just after sunrise when five officers on horseback crashed through the dense brush to come on the fugitives' camp.

Whitehead was sitting up, dozing, an empty whiskey bottle nearby. Myers was about 30 yards away, his body torn by shotgun slugs.

A loaded shotgun was near the dead man, Whitehead had a loaded highpower rifle at hand.

No Resistance

Whitehead offered no resistance. The gun-blazing chase started yesterday afternoon near Elk City, Okla., where the two men were involved in an automobile accident.

Mrs. Lois Hunter, 34, Greeley, talked by telephone with Wheeler County Sheriff Bus Dorman. She said the car used by the fugitives was her husband's. She said she and Hunter, or Myers, had been married a month, and that her husband used the name of Hunter. This was confirmed by Whitehead.

Mrs. Hunter previously told officers her husband had gone to Alexandria, La., on business. She said Hunter's younger brother—actually half-brother—James, 21, was with him.

The slain man's wife said Whitehead was recently discharged from the Marine Corps.

Authorities used bloodhounds, an airplane, automobiles and horses in hunting the pair.

About 100 Texas Rangers, sheriffs and deputies, other local officers and possemen from Texas and Oklahoma helped in the hunt.

'Thin Man'
Commits Suicide

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 2 (AP) — Henry Weber, Newark's notorious "thin man" holdup artist of the 1930s, hanged himself in Essex County Jail today.

The 64-year-old man, facing spending the rest of his life in prison, put his handkerchief and belt around his throat and then hooked the other end to the cell door, authorities said.

Weber, of Philadelphia, had told a newsman last night, "I have a bum heart and I guess I'll die in prison."

Det. Joseph Nisiovecchia then had remarked prophetically that Weber was "a graying old man knew he'd reached the end of his rope."

Nickname

Weber was nicknamed the "thin man" in 1936 after a string of 30 spectacular holdups. He has spent 18 of the last 20 years in state prison, being paroled last March.

At that time he started working for a painter in Montclair but the company went broke. Then he went to Virginia looking for work but "everywhere they said I was too old or my record was against me."

Jobless and broke, Weber said he had no recourse but to go back to his old trade. He bought a revolver in Virginia and came back to the Newark area.

Police said he tried to hold up the Consumer Finance Co. in East Orange Friday but it was just one of those days when everything goes wrong.

Israeli Forces Pull Back From Canal

Occupation Forces In New Territory

TEL AVIV, Israel, Dec. 2 (AP) — All Israeli forces remaining in Egypt's Sinai Peninsula have pulled back to positions more than 30 miles east of the Suez Canal, an army spokesman said today. That widens the area available for U.N. police occupation.

Israel announced yesterday it had withdrawn another brigade from Egypt, bringing its total withdrawals to three brigades. This might mean from 10,000 to 12,000 men. The spokesman declined to specify, but the best estimate here is that an Israeli brigade ranges between 3,500 and 4,000 men.

Israeli troops still occupy key Sinai centers as well as the southern tip of the peninsula, which controls the Gulf of Aqaba.

Security

The spokesman refused on grounds of military security to reveal the number of troops still occupying the peninsula, which the Israelis invaded Oct. 29 and wrested from the Egyptians in four days of ground and air combat.

Neither the army nor government officials would give a timetable for future withdrawals. They said these depended on political developments.

In Israel's domestic economy, the war-born cut in oil supplies was reflected today by government orders imposing restrictions on motor vehicles and the use of electricity.

Effective, immediately, most private and commercial vehicles must keep off the roads one day a week. They will be limited at other times to zones prescribed by authorities—usually within city limits. Buses, milk and fuel trucks and interurban taxis are exempt.

In other developments:

1. The Communist newspaper Kol Haam—Voice of the People—reduced its size from four to two pages daily. It blamed the Middle East situation. Anti-Communist sources said the paper lost many subscribers recently because of its anti-Soviet line.

2. Jacob Meridor, member of the Israeli Parliament for the Herut—Freedom—party, said in a speech that if Egyptian President Nasser disregards the Israeli military victory when the Suez Canal is reopened, the canal will be closed again by "two or three boys" of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, the underground organization that once fought the British in Palestine. He added that "these boys are not members of the United Nations."

3. Israeli officials announced a new municipal government will be set up this week in Khan Yunis, in the Gaza Strip. Last week a municipal government was installed in Gaza City.

4. The army said an Israeli patrol killed two Arabs and took two prisoners Friday near Beersheba, east of the Gaza Strip. It said the patrol observed "a group of armed Arabs" and opened fire when the Arabs failed to heed a challenge.

Former Sniper Shoots Robber

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 2 (AP) — A former Army sniper, who told police he learned how "to shoot in the dark" at Anzio, Italy during World War II, killed a hold-up man last night with a single shot.

The ex-GI, A. R. Al Stevens, 45, is a clerk in the pawn shop robbed of $227 by the bandit. Brought down in a dark alley, after a short chase through the business district crowded with shoppers, was William George Bayes, Charleston.

Reasoning

He said the robber was screened so thoroughly that "not many will be able to come in who will not be desirable. If they're

'Turncoats' Fail To Find Peace In Red China

HONG KONG, Dec. 2 (AP) — Two American turncoats of the Korean War, sullen and homesick, said today they just want peace—which they didn't find in Red China—and to be back with their kindfolk for Christmas.

Arley Pate, 26, of Carbondale, Ill., and Aaron Wilson, 24, of Urania, La., crossed the border into this British crown colony wearing cheap Western-style blue suits and carrying brown suitcases.

A half-dozen of the 21 American prisoners who chose in 1953 to stay with their Communist captors had come out earlier. One died in China. Of the 14 others, Pate and Wilson said they knew of none who might ask to leave.

Defense

Pate, the more talkative of the pair, told newsmen he "never informed on American prisoners of war while in a Korean camp, never informed on an attempted escape, never got better food while a prisoner and never heard of the Suez Canal crisis or of uprisings in Hungary."

Wilson nodded in agreement. "I went to China because I wanted peace," Pate said. "I didn't find it there, and will now go back to lead a peaceful life with my family."

Thirty newsmen interviewed them in the lobby of the second-class hotel where they will stay until the Red Cross arranges to send them home.

Concerning communism, Pate said, "If people want it they can have it."

Wilson echoed his statements. "Both said they were only workers and were given no lectures on communism."

Handicap

"In fact, you can't consider me a worker because I was handicapped by the language," Pate volunteered. "In the paper factory in Tsinan—Shensi Province—where I was a third-grade lathe operator, the Chinese did most of the heavy work while I watched. At night I ran around and went to dances and movies, having a good time."

British Officials Face Bitter Task

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP) — Ailing Prime Minister Eden's lieutenants face the bitter task tomorrow of breaking the news that British and French forces will pull out of Egypt.

The announcement is expected from Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd in the House of Commons. It could touch off a bitter political battle within the ranks of Eden's Conservative party and might endanger his chances of continuing much longer as prime minister.

The pullout decision—which informants say already has been made known to diplomatic circles—comes in response to pressure from the United Nations, the United States and some Commonwealth countries. The expectation is that Britain and France, the latter possibly somewhat more reluctantly, will try to get most of their forces out of the Suez Canal area before Christmas.

Disillusionment

Lloyd's statement will come at a time of growing disillusionment about the Egyptian operation in Conservative party ranks and among the population at large—a disillusionment that has resulted in anti-American statements in Parliament and out. News that American oil was on the way seems to have brought a better climate of feeling toward the United States.

Gasoline shortages, short-time working in some industrial plants and continued criticism of Eden's policies by the Labor opposition, have built up the impression that Britain in Egypt was a major blunder that produced few concrete gains and heavy diplomatic and financial losses.

The Sunday Observer—critic of Eden's policy—said editorially it was necessary for the government to cut its losses and try to clean up the wreckage. It added that, "Confidence in Britain cannot be restored without some changes in government." Eden was not mentioned by name, but the implication was obvious.

Correspondents

The pro-emergency Sunday Express—firm supporter of intervention in Egypt—said in its news columns today that Egypt was racing against the clock trying to get "firm assurances on the clearance and future control of the Suez Canal" before making his announcement.

Diplomatic and parliamentary correspondents generally agreed that Lloyd will announce the pullout whether he gets those assurances or not. But the Express said about 20 Conservative rank-and-file members in Parliament were prepared to vote against the government if Lloyd has no gains to show. This is not enough to bring the government down but it would seriously cripple it.

Canham To Head Manpower Council

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of the Christian Science Monitor, has been named chairman of the National Manpower Council, it was announced today.

Canham succeeds James D. Zellenbach, newly appointed U. S. ambassador to Italy.

Hungarians Seek Bodies Of Relatives Killed In Revolt

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 2 (AP) — Thousands of Hungarians trudged through snow flurries today to find the bodies of relatives who disappeared during the revolution.

Hundreds of simple black wooden coffins were scattered in the yards of the big Rakoskeresztur Cemetery. Lids were open to enable people to look upon the dead.

More than 1,000 bodies have already been buried in this cemetery alone since the revolt again, an old gravedigger said. So far only those were buried which either were identified by relatives or whose identity could be determined by documents found on them.

Busy Force

Gravediggers are among Budapest's busiest people these days. Now they are beginning to bury unidentified dead because they cannot wait much longer.

So far there have been people every day who find relatives in the unmarked coffins. Then a piece of paper, with the name, is nailed on the coffin and a note chalked on: "Identity established."

Most of the people studying the coffins today were middle-aged or elderly, with eyes red from weeping.

French Walk Out Of Conference

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 2 (AP) — The French delegation walked out of a Socialist international meeting here today to protest a resolution condemning the invasion of Egypt.

The resolution was introduced by Hugh Gaitskill, leader of Britain's Socialist Labor party, and one French delegate commented: "We do not want to be condemned for reasons of English internal policy." The implication was that Gaitskill presented the resolution as political ammunition against the Conservative Eden government.

The resolution, condemning the use of armed force in the Middle East as a breach of the U. N. Charter and of U. N. resolutions, was adopted without opposition a few moments after the French stalked out. Delegations from 13 nations were present with voting rights and eight of these voted by the portion of the resolution condemning armed intervention in Egypt. The others, including Israel, abstained.

Poison Kills Fish

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2 (AP) — A sudden flood of poisonous material in a stream in Central Pennsylvania killed more than 175,000 trout at a loss of at least $100,000, the Pennsylvania Fish Commission reported today.

Communists, we don't want them." But he added that "if the men have fought, I'm convinced they're opposed to communism."

Walter said transportation problems, not government "red tape," was responsible for slowing down the flow of refugees to this country. "I can't criticize the government," he added.

Ike, Dulles Hopeful For Peace Move

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 2 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today both he and President Eisenhower believe the prospects for peace in the still tense Middle East are "reasonably good."

At the same time, Dulles said after a conference with the President here that the need to "rebuild unity and strength" of the North Atlantic Alliance has been "tragically demonstrated by Soviet action in Eastern Europe, particularly in Hungary."

The Cabinet officer, ending a month's convalescence from an intestinal operation, set forth that view in a prepared statement which he said had been approved by Eisenhower.

Remarks

His remarks that both he and the President feel the chances for peace are reasonably good in the trouble-ridden Middle East were made at a news conference where he discussed the statement.

"Certainly I think anyone must be far gone in pessimism if he thinks the danger of war in the Middle East today is as great as it was a month ago," Dulles said when a reporter declared the prospects for peace in that strategic area have been painted somewhat gloomily in some quarters.

In his statement, Dulles said, "The President is particularly concerned with the strains and dangers that flow from the persistent disregard by international communism of the principles and pleas of the United Nations."

That appeared to be an allusion, for one thing, to how the Soviet Union has disregarded U.N. condemnation of Russian terrorism in Hungary.

"Nations in both Asia and Europe remain forcibly divided; many peoples are subjected to a ruthless external rule which they deeply resent, and many live in fear, under the shadow of a similar fate," Dulles added.

Then he went on to say "these nations and people, we believe, should be allowed their free choice of government with no servitude to anyone," and he added:

"The President and I feel that this situation ought increasingly to engage the attention of the United Nations in discharge of its charter mission to promote peace with justice."

Dulles flew here this morning from Key West, Fla., where he had been convalescing the last two weeks from a Nov. 3 operation which disclosed intestinal cancer. His physicians said at the time they had removed all traces of the malignancy.

Plans

The secretary plans to return to his State Department desk tomorrow, and he intends to leave Saturday for an important Paris meeting of the NATO Ministerial Council starting Dec. 13.

Dulles and Eisenhower conferred today for about two hours at the Augusta National Golf Club where the President has been combining work and relaxation since last Monday.

They dealt with planning continuance of American efforts to shore up the North Atlantic Alliance in the light of the strains which have been put upon it by differences between the United States on the one hand and Great Britain and France on the other.

Those differences developed when the British and French launched the military venture into Egypt, and the U.S. refused to back up the move.

Police Force Also Under Tight Command

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Dec. 2 (AP) — Syria's largely pro-Soviet army has press and radio under tight control and bars nearly all information from the West, reliable informants said today.

They gave this picture of the situation in Syria: It was the Syrian government's declaration of martial law early in November that allowed the army to move in on newspapers and radio stations and to take command of most of Syria's police force.

Most Syrian military officers now are pro-Soviet because of their enmity for the British and French and because Russia is providing Syria with cheap armaments.

Leader

Their leader in the swing toward Moscow is Col. Abdul Hamid Sarraj, chief of army intelligence and an admirer of Egypt's President Nasser.

A struggle for power is being waged within the 10-man Cabinet of Premier Sabri Salim.

Assad's Nationalist party and the Socialist Resurrection party of Foreign Minister Salah Bitar are arrayed against the Populist party of Interior Minister Ahmed Qanbar.

Both the Nationalists and the Socialists are pro-Soviet. Qanbar's anti-Communist Populists have the largest number of deputies in Syria's Parliament and, with three ministers, the largest Cabinet representation. But the Populists are split.

Syria now resembles an armed camp. There literally are more men in uniform than civilians in the streets of Damascus.

Troops guard every bridge and rail crossing in the country. Every train carries an armed guard. Radio stations, banks, embassies and public buildings all are surrounded by troops armed with tommy guns. Everywhere there are obvious precautions against armed attack.

Propaganda

It was mid-November when the army began a propaganda war against Iraq.

The editorial offices and the Syrian broadcasting system were bombarded with columns of "news stories" and editorials about alleged atrocities inflicted on the people of Iraq by the government of Premier Nuri Said. Each item was labeled: "This must be published."

Little space was left for news from any other source except the Soviet Tass news agency.

The Middle East News Agency run by Egyptians and the U.S. Information Agency which is working hard against heavy odds, are the newspapers' only other sources. Most American personnel of USA were evacuated to Beirut when the Middle East crisis began.

The Soviet Embassy in Damascus is busy. By actual count of Russian advertising published the Soviet Embassy is spending close to $50,000 weekly to show what good fellows the Russians are.

USA has not followed the Russians in paying for such advertising. It gives editors a steady flow of news written in Washington and photographs. Some of this U.S. material has a hard time getting through newspaper censorship, however.

Red Star Raps Mindszenty In Cartoon

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (AP)—A cartoon in the Soviet army newspaper Red Star today pictured Josef Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary holding prayer beads with a Nazi swastika attached.

An accompanying article, entitled "The Second Coming of Cardinal Mindszenty," declared the reappearance of the Roman Catholic primate of Hungary in Budapest a reference to his liberation from prison, "differed slightly from the second coming of Christ." Cardinal Mindszenty "organized a conspiracy against the Hungarian people . . . but his second coming ended when armed rebels escorted him to the American Embassy."

Tracking Snow In Some Localities To Assist Deer Hunters

Half-Million Expected To Seek Buck

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2 (AP) — A prospect of good tracking, with snow on the ground in most areas, sent thousands of hunters into Pennsylvania's forests today for opening of a two-week buck deer season Monday.

The antlered deer season, last of the state's hunting season, opens at 7 a. m. Monday and closes Dec. 15.

The game commission estimated that a half-million hunters would seek the buck limit of one buck each during the two-weeks' period and that the total bag would be about 45,000.

There will be no antlerless deer season this year, but Dr. Logan J. Bennett, executive director of

Hunters Invade Area

HUNDREDS of hunters invaded Monroe and Pike counties over the weekend to await the opening of the two-week buck deer season which will begin at 7 a. m. today.

Monroe County Treasurer Frank Weller reported his office issued more than 100 hunting licenses between 9 a. m. and noon Saturday. So far, 2,130 licenses have been issued.

However, the number of licenses issued throughout the county is undetermined because many sporting goods stores also issue hunting permits.

The State Game Commission, expects one to be declared in 1957.

Innovation
An innovation of the 1956 deer season will be a research project to evaluate the effects of hunting pressure and determine deer productivity on different parts of the range.

The project will be carried out by having a game commission research biologist study teeth in deer jaws sent to him. Game protectors and game commission office personnel will receive jaws and forward them to the biologist.

Bennett requested all hunters "interested in better deer hunting in the future" to support the plan by forwarding jaws to the Game Commission.

Mindful of the casualty lists of previous deer season, Bennett issued this list of warnings to hunters:

"A gun is not dangerous until the person handling it makes it so."

"Safe hunting requires control of the emotions and a sense of responsibility."

Common Sense
"Deer hunting demands common sense procedures. No chances with human safety should be taken."

"A buck is not so important that anyone's life should be endangered."

"There should never be any guess shooting—at movement or sound in the brush."

"The responsible sportsman makes sure it's a legal buck, nothing else, before he fires."

"Deer are supposedly color blind, therefore, wearing bright, protective clothing will probably not hurt the hunters' chances of bagging a buck."

"Hunting safely, and handling a firearm with the respect due a killing device, gives the hunter peace of mind."

"When hunting is enjoyed in a safe, sensible way, the sportsman returns home safe—and he allows the other fellow to do the same."

The one-week bear hunting season ended Saturday. Bennett said preliminary reports indicated a total kill of about 350 but that it might run up to 450 because of good weather conditions for hunting.

West End Man Found Dead In Garage

By Leonard Randolph
BRODHEADSVILLE.—Last Friday morning, 74-year-old Frederick C. Krumbeck told a Brodheads store owner that he was "going to back his car into the garage, turn on the motor and let it go."

About 28 hours later Krumbeck's body was found in his car, parked in the garage at his abandoned cottage home near here. The garage doors were closed. Both front windows in his two-door sedan were opened.

County Coroner Dr. Charles H. Rushmore later signed a death certificate listing the cause as a suicide with death due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Dr. Rushmore said the car had apparently stalled a short while after it had been started. The gas tank was still three-quarters full when the man's body was found at 1:20 p. m. Saturday, the coroner said.

Mr. Krumbeck was a retired coffee salesman who had lived most of his life in Long Island, N. Y. He had spent Summer vacations in the West End several years before his retirement. He moved to Brodheads about two years ago.

His wife is believed to have died seven or eight years ago, according to Edgar Hamm, the store owner-funeral director with whom Krumbeck talked Friday morning.

Cottage
A few months ago Mr. Krumbeck moved into his newly-completed cottage home in that area. A short time later, residents told officials, he became dissatisfied and moved into an apartment in central Brodheads. He had lived there since that time.

Hamm said last night that he had talked with Krumbeck and attempted to convince him that he should go to New York "and visit with your friends there." One of the elderly man's final comments to Hamm was that "he wanted to be cremated," the businessman said. Krumbeck's car was seen parked in front of the apartment house where he was living until sometime in mid-morning Saturday, residents told officials. The last person to see the car, apparently, was Hamm, who noticed it on his way by the building.

Hamm had earlier talked with two other residents of the town and told them what Krumbeck had said to him Friday morning. Throughout the day Friday and that night the three men—one of whom was the landlord in the building where Krumbeck lived—agreed to "keep their eyes" on the older man. The two other men also talked with him, tried to cheer him up and attempted to break through the despondency Krumbeck had built up within himself, officials said.

Time
The three men succeeded in watching the older man until "about 10 a. m. Saturday," they later told officials. Between that hour and 1 p. m. Krumbeck's actions were unnoticed.

Officials said Krumbeck had been talking and visiting with people in the town until around 10 a. m. He apparently left the heart of town a short while later, drove to his cottage, put the car in the garage and started the motor. He had been dead only a brief time when his body was found, the coroner said last night.

Discovery of the body was made by Matthew Conklin Sr. Conklin lives in the general neighborhood of the Krumbeck cottage. He told officials that he and his wife had heard the house was "for sale."

They walked to the Krumbeck home to look at the building. Conklin told officials he tried the front door of the house, failed to arouse a response. The man said he then decided to try the downstairs door to the garage which is located at almost under the house.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. at the Hamm Funeral Home. The Rev. John Robinson, pastor of Gilbert Lutheran Church, will officiate. Cremation will take place at Maple Hill Crematory in Wilkes-Barre.

The funeral director said last night that Krumbeck's only known survivor is George Armstrong, Riverside, Conn., a brother-in-law. He said, however, that local residents believed the man to have two brothers.

Their addresses and identities are unknown, he said.

Scouts Attend Review At Mount Cobb

NEWFOUNDLAND.—A pantomimed "Review of Scouting" was presented by the Cub Scouts, and Explorers of Newfoundland units at the Fall Roundup held at Jefferson High School, Mount Cobb.

Narrated by Scoutmaster Richard McLain, the program covered all events in which the local boys have participated during the past year. Den and Pack meetings were reviewed. Boy Scout week, Winter activities including hiking and skating, the Spring Camporee, Summer camping trips, — all were depicted in pantomime. The mid-Winter Camp Rendezvous of the Explorers at Goose Pond was described.

Story
The program also featured the story of the BSA National Training Center at Philmont, the anticipated National Jamboree at Valley Forge, and the "Get Out the Vote" service of the Scouts.

Two meetings are planned for the local troop and post next week. On Tuesday, the boys will meet to make individual survival first aid kits. On Thursday, they will go to Weston Field for a swim.

Scouts attending the rally at Mount Cobb were Scoutmaster McLain; Assistant Scoutmaster Larry McLain; Committeemen Harry Grimm and Clarence Young. Approximately 20 Scouts and Explorers, and one Cub Scout, attended the event.

Asure Elected President Of Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau At Special Annual Session

PAUL ASURE, owner-manager of the Paradise Valley Lodge, has been elected president of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau to succeed Harry Ahnert, Jr., of Fernwood, who is retiring after two terms in office.

Asure, a representative of the Top of the Pocono Association, was named to the post at a special annual election held Friday night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. His election represents a usual geographical shift in the selection of Bureau officers.

Others elected were Thomas Robinson, of Twin Pine Lodge and Ranch, first vice-president; C. Elwood Huffman, Mountain Lake House, second vice president, and Francis T. Shinn, Vacation Valley, treasurer.

In assuming his new office, Asure gave an official invitation to non-member resorts to participate in the activities of the Vacation Bureau.

Need
Following the theme of keynote remarks made by the retiring president, Asure stressed the need for unity among the three associations which comprise the Vacation Bureau; the Top of the Poconos Association, Eastern Pocono Resort Association, and the new Members-at-Large Association.

Although always represented on the board of governors, the new members-at-large group (MAL) were represented as an organization at Friday's meeting by a completely new slate of governors.

The slate included Miss Doris Meinweiser, The Inn, Buck Hill Falls; Clarence Bush, Bush's Lake Montauk Cottages; Dr. Claude Leister, Pocono Wild Animal Farm; Roci Ursino, Roxann Motels; Mrs. Ella Vannatta, Camp Waltell, and Michael Varkony, Varkony's Country Inn.

MAL alternates on the board of governors are Leroy Guccini, White Beauty Inn; John Hartenstine, Circle Motel; Mrs. Helen Henry, the Woodside; Robinson, Twin Pine Ranch; Eric Schuchard, Penn-Stroud Hotel, and Mrs. Eleanor Ziegler, Henryville Lodge.

Governors representing the East Pocono Resort Association are Ahnert, the Fernwood; William Altier, Altier's Inn; Huffman, Mountain Lake House; Mrs. Elsie Pipher, Bushkill Falls House; John Shinn, Vacation Valley; Charles Theodore, Blue Ridge Inn.

Alternates are Walter Eichenbach, Sunset Hill; Joseph Farda, Paramount Motel; Adolph Schmitt, Schmitt's Mountain Rest, and Francis Shinn, Vacation Valley.

Governors representing the Top of the Poconos Association are Paul Asure, Paradise Valley Lodge; R. LeRoy Dengler, Hawthorne Inn; Charles Gelsinger, High Point Inn; Edward C. Jenkins, Skyline Inn, and Edmund Strickland, Strickland's Mountain Inn.

Alternates
Alternates to be recognized from the TPA membership are Walter Fossa, Pocono Mountains Inn; Henry Arnberg, the Sterling, and Russell Low, Hemlock Lodge.

J. Horace Strunk, Vacation Bureau executive secretary, reported that this is the first time that officers have been elected prior to the coming season. He said further the bureau has adopted another innovation — including advertising schedules, publicity and membership — also begin before the start of each year, rather than in the Spring.

West Acts To Settle Differences As Russians Pose Threat In Syria

The Western Allies moved yesterday to settle their differences in the Middle East in the face of a new Communist threat arising from the situation in Syria.

President Eisenhower's offer of oil for Western Europe, aimed at relieving the shortage brought on by the Suez crisis, followed on the heels of Britain and France preparing for speedy and large-scale withdrawal of their military forces in Egypt.

Turkey, meanwhile, has called attention to the Sovietization of the Syrian Army and the threat that this factor constitutes to the peace of the Near East.

Turkey has had long and painful experience with Russian imperialism, and is in no mood to sit by idly while her enemies prepare for her undoing.

Iraq, another neighbor of Syria, has suffered the loss of a great part of her national income from oil as a result of the destruction of her pipelines running through Syria, and may also be counted on to become restive in the face of further Soviet penetration in that part of the world. Iraq indicated it was preparing for the worst in a situation that is rapidly deteriorating as Russian arms continue to flow into Syria.

Turkey and Iraq could not have failed to take note of the lesson learned from the Israeli incursion into the Sinai Peninsula, where vast stores of Russian armaments, obviously waiting for Russian personnel to man them, were easily captured by the Israeli forces.

The Turks are under no illusions about the intentions or methods of the Kremlin, and they are not likely to doze while further preparations are being made by her enemies.

The United Nations failed to anticipate the outburst of violence in the Sinai Peninsula and had to go in after fierce fighting had taken place. This time, the warnings are even shriller and clearer.

Unless immediate preventive action is taken by the U.N., a much more difficult program of remedial action will become necessary.

The situation is one of immediacy. It cries out for urgent action to stamp out the burning fuse that could set off an explosion dwarfing the explosion that engulfed Egypt when Israel, Britain and France attacked.

The best way to seek an avoidance of the next clash is to spotlight Russian infiltration in Syria and other Arab countries and to call Russia swiftly to account through action by the U.N. General Assembly

Herter Emerging As Important Man In U. S. Dealings With Britain, France

The name of Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts keeps bobbing up in political talk around Washington.

Used by Harold E. Stassen in an attempt to short-circuit the renomination of Vice President Richard M. Nixon last August, Gov. Herter attained national stature by repudiating Stassen's sponsorship and backing Nixon.

There seems to be no doubt he enjoys the favor of President Eisenhower. Nor is there much doubt that he will land a spot close to the President's ear when the second Eisenhower term gets under way in January.

You Can Take Your Choice Of Special Days, Weeks, Months; There Are Plenty Of Them

When I looked at this pamphlet, "Special Days, Weeks, Months in 1957," issued by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, I could hardly believe what I saw. Practically every day of the year has been emptied by somebody as a holiday.

For instance, right on the first page, I see Louisiana Yam Supper Season and under it is Super Market Month and believe it or not the March of Dimes is followed by Odorous Decoration Week.

That one puzzled me, so I looked it up and there is a committee and an address and all that. And the purpose is "To inform the public of the latest developments in the home field which permit decoration on an all-year-round basis without the usual discomfort odors." I wish I had known about that before because while I have thus far not been able to get a new ice-box from my landlord who is an absentee in an adjacent republic, I did get some of the house painted.

My wife sent Joe up to the kennels in Nyack because Joe might suffer from the odor of the paint but it is all right for the humans to take the fish oil, tung oil, turpentine or benzine or whatever the landlords put into paint to keep the tenants from asking for more painting.

How About A Voice of America For Americans?

In a world of situations that don't make sense, can you tie this one, with our Government spending billions through The Voice of America to get the facts of international life across to people.

OUTSIDE America, our own radio and TV systems (with one exception) are not bothering to get them across INSIDE our own country. One lone radio station, New York City's municipal outfit, thinks words and actions that may mean the survival of America and life or death for you, you and you rate all-out coverage!!!

TV and radio, as a whole, seem to think quiz shows, who-dunnits, westerns must go on, whether civilization goes on or not. The big airways systems are not in business for their health. They couldn't cover hour after hour the General Assembly debates, vital as they are in one of the most dangerous hours in history. But they could do better.

The most startling picture of the alarming situation confronting the free world and America is presented daily through the words and action of the General Assembly of U. N. Here is a dramatic presentation of a world on the brink of disaster, yet it isn't permitted to interrupt "Looney Tunes," "Mickey Mouse" or "Time for Fun."

It is as important to Americans to get the full picture of feelings and attitudes of global ambassadors today as it was when Hitler was planning to devastate the world, but during the most vital events at the United Nations special sessions John Q. Citizen turns to the airwaves and got soap operas, comedy routines, weather forecasts and plugs for cigarettes and beer.

The Egyptian crisis, with its possibilities of a world war reaching into every American home; and the stark story of Hungary are aired completely by delegates from all the nations of the earth in an American city, but try for some slight information on your airwave sets and you conclude that even back in the days when I could eat ice cream, I found the gook they put on top of it unpalatable.

I shall skip over Kraut and Frankfurter Week, taking for granted that it is a way of stirring interest in the hot dog which is an old device for eating sausage without getting greasy fingers.

In the old days, the hot dogs were more spicy and more highly smoked than they are now.

There is Cottage Cheese-Cling Peach Salad Time which might be interesting and then there is something called One-Dish Meals with Cheese. The list marks as tentative Irish Linen Week which seems to be prejudicial. The Irish are never tentative. Then I discover Pearadise-in-April which is to encourage the eating of Bartlett pears.

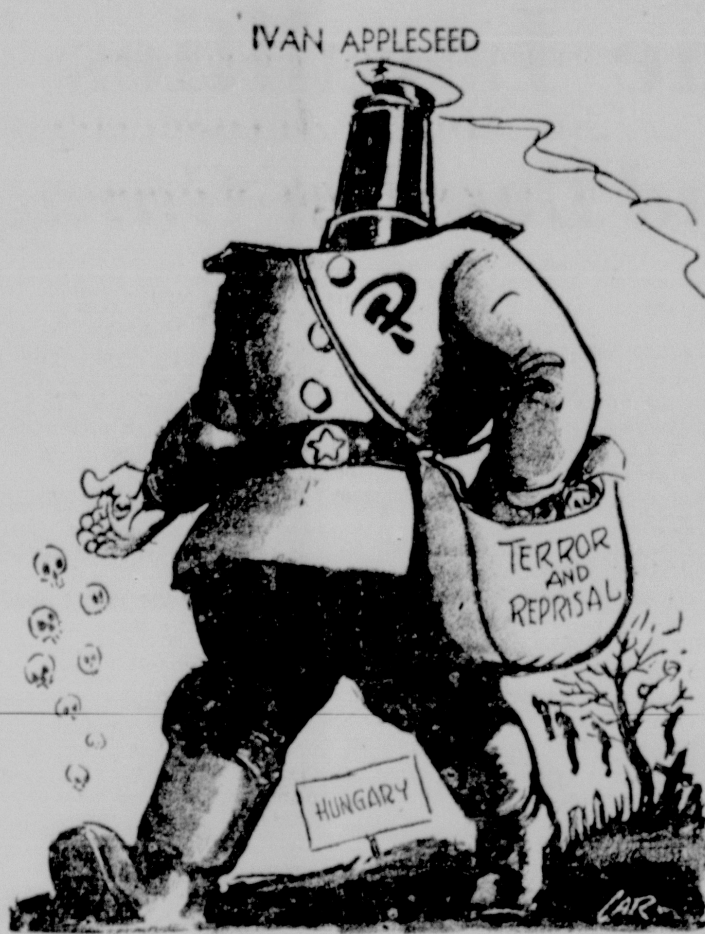

You can take your choice as to whether you will eat these pears every day for a week or eat an apple to keep the doctor away or just eat nothing and go on to Spring Festival of Gas Ranges or Clean Oil Month or Bike Safety Week or Correct Posture Week or V.F.W. "Buddy" Poppy Week or Refresh with Milk Campaign or whether you will just celebrate Christmas Day which is listed as religious.

However, do not buy anything that is made in any country behind the Iron Curtain. These countries need our dollars; do not give them our dollars. Celebrate Christmas by buying only American goods and the goods of our allies.

That Nasser's next step isn't as important as Gene Autry's, Buck Jones or Tennessee Ernie's. The Suez Canal is eclipsed by "The Day Dough" and "Queen for a Day." Threats and portents from Syria make way for "Video Varieties." A British, French, United States or Canadian statesman warning the people of one of the darkest hours in history takes a back seat for Liberace, "Midday Movie" and "Romper Room."

A Prime Minister, an ambassador striving to arouse the people to a possible doom of mankind? . . . One side, butter, for Wendy Barrie, Flicka or a cooking program!

Robert E. Lee is a co-author of "Auntie Mae, but you could be excused for assuming it was 'Dann Yankees' . . . A score and more of big publishing interests have their eyes on Johnny Neumark and his Yale Daily News group of college kids as a result of their job in getting out "Insurance World" with $250,000 worth of ads from big insurance companies . . . $20,000 copies will go to colleges all over the country and the News and boys will make plenty . . . It's one of the most sensational performances by a college newspaper group on record.

Miles Seem Shorter As Years Snap Past

At the rate the years snap past, it won't be long until we can guide the family automobile up a ramp and join the cross-country highway parade.

When the vast network proposed by President Eisenhower becomes reality, Maine will be closer to California than it ever was before, by terra firma.

Hotels will dot this thruway, offering a night's lodging for weary travelers who have no objection to a quick swim, a rare steak and—if not too weary from sitting comfortably all day in a push-button power gliding car—a bit of dancing under the stars. Shouldn't he be out of line to arrange either simple or elaborate evenings like that all across the continent, for as little as $5 or as much as $50 per night per customer.

Some of these super strips of tomorrow will be lighted, some will be heated to melt winter snows and ice. Landscape artists will create vistas to beguile the unwary driver who otherwise might not over his power steering. Helicopters may even swoop down and remove disabled cars.

much as the mighty eagle lifts a lamb strayed from a flock.

These roads and hotels and automobiles offer incredible contrast with the Boston Post Road about 1700. Our first roads were simple footpaths blazed through the forests. Then they would accommodate horsemen, and cowboys drove herds of cattle eastward over trails no wider than a man could reach. Then a few grander roads began to see stages bumping over their chuckholes, tree stumps and hub-deep mud.

If the day's journey covered 10 or 15 miles, the stage had really been jumping. Twenty-five miles was tops for horsemen. Old driver's taverns were a riotous climax to the trip, and travelers knew what "weary" meant. There is a little old sign still hanging on one of these relics from days past. Driving a car into a modern highway hotel, ordering ice and soda, stepping into a hot shower before a leisurely dinner and movie, it's intriguing to read the ancient rules of the tavern: "Four pence a night for Bed, Six pence with Supper. No more than five to sleep in one bed. No Boots to be worn in bed. Organ Grinders to sleep in the Wash house. No dogs allowed upstairs. No Beer allowed in the Kitchen. No Razor Grinders or Tinkers taken in."

Cool reception — Three alternatives have been suggested by the Joint Chiefs for enforcing this overwhelming approved arms ban:

The UN could impose sanctions against Russia and any other country that violates the resolution.

The UN could authorize the U.S. Sixth Fleet to act as its agency to halt and seize the prohibited arms shipments.

The UN could set up its own police force, as is being done in Egypt, to enforce this part of the November 2 resolution.

November 29, 1956. John F. Hill, Editor, The Daily Record, Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dear Sir: On Monday, November 26, 1956, a meeting was held at Stroudsburg High School to acquaint the community with the new plan for State-wide reorganization of the school districts in our state. The local citizenry was conspicuous by their absence. Most of those attending were school officials, teachers, board members, etc., so I would like to take this way of telling the taxpayers in Stroud Union, and East Stroudsburg Jointure, that this reorganization is a vitally important measure, which concerns all of us very deeply.

Public apathy for this sort of thing is notorious, it is only later when this bill and its many complicated provisions and clauses becomes law that the public will be indignant at parts of the law that are not in their best interest.

For instance, the new setup proposes that Monroe, Pike, and Wayne Counties should become one regional district, with an office centrally located in the area of the three counties to conduct and administer all normal functions of the districts as well as special services, the buying and condemning of property for school expansion purposes, etc.

If the people of this area, Monroe County desire to know what is going on with regard their school districts they had better attend all public meetings and become informed so that they may evaluate, and oppose or sanction the many measures being considered under the new bill.

If the general public does not interest itself and inform itself, the bill will become law in 1962 whether or not we like the provisions of the law or not.

Our legislature has very wisely given us a period of time to acquaint ourselves with the proposals and voice our opinions. If we do not we are shirking our duty as citizens and as members of our respective school districts. All meetings are given ample public notice beforehand, so there is no excuse for not attending. You'll regret it later on, if you don't.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Joint Chiefs Urge Steps To Halt Red Arms Flow

Washington, Dec. 2 — Immediate measures to halt Russia's war-mongering flow of weapons to the inflamed Middle East are being strongly advised by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

They have made this urgent recommendation directly to President Eisenhower.

It was foremost among the matters he discussed with Secretary Dulles and Undersecretary Herbert Hoover, Jr., at their August conference.

Unless steps are initiated to halt further Soviet arming of Syria, Egypt and other Arab "puppets," the Joint Chiefs favor granting war-threatened Iraq's request for $25,000,000 of planes, tanks and heavy artillery.

Iraq is allied with the U. S. in a mutual security pact. Some $17,000,000 in military aid already has been given this oil-rich country.

The proposed crackdown on Russia would be through the United Nations.

For this purpose the Joint Chiefs are counseling the invoking of the cease-fire resolution adopted by the General Assembly on November 2.

This historic resolution, sponsored by the U. S. and adopted by a vote of 64 to 5, with 6 abstentions, does two things: Demands the immediate cessation of hostilities by Britain, France and Israel, and calls on all UN members to stop arms shipments.

Russia and its satellites vigorously advocated and voted for this resolution.

The Joint Chiefs' recommendation is based largely on the fact. The Reds' public attack against this sinister weapons peddling would be used to compel their compliance with the UN resolution.

Cool reception — Three alternatives have been suggested by the Joint Chiefs for enforcing this overwhelming approved arms ban:

The UN could impose sanctions against Russia and any other country that violates the resolution.

The UN could authorize the U.S. Sixth Fleet to act as its agency to halt and seize the prohibited arms shipments.

The UN could set up its own police force, as is being done in Egypt, to enforce this part of the November 2 resolution.

Secretaries Dulles and Hoover have indicated they disapprove of the Joint Chiefs' recommendation. The two State Department leaders take the position that a move of this kind would be highly inadvisable until all British-French-Israel troops have been withdrawn from Egypt. Dulles and Hoover contend the U. S. would lose all the goodwill it has built up with the Arab countries, through the policy it has pursued so far, by demanding enforcement of the UN arms ban at this time.

It is argued such drastic action could lead to the loss of all Middle East oil.

The Arabian-American Oil Company (ARAMCO) is still producing large quantities of oil in Saudi Arabia, and transporting it through a pipeline that crosses both Jordan and Syria. This Trans-Arabian Pipeline is the only major line still operating in this area.

The State Department officials warn that anti-American elements in Syria and Jordan would use the proposed crackdown on Soviet weapons as justification for destroying this crucial pipeline.

Countering this view the Joint Chiefs point out that failure to halt Red arms inevitably will lead to another, and probably far worse, Middle East conflict.

Either Russia's war-mongering in this inflamed region must be ended, the Pentagon leaders assert, or the free world faces the certainty of a repetition, of the ominous difficulties that were set in motion by the Soviet's arming of Egypt.

The blunt view of the Joint Chiefs is that a firm stand must be taken, one way or the other—either stop Russian weapons, or supply them to the West's allies.

Flashes—The U.S. planes carrying Indian troops to the UN police force in Egypt were permitted to fly over Syria. That virtual Soviet satellite granted this permission at the behest of India. This was the first time in several months Syria has permitted American planes to fly over its territory. . . . The Iranian government has quietly put through a big shakeup among high army officers. Some 250 of them, including 22 generals and 139 colonels were "retired". . . . Two new Russian missions are in Burma. One is agricultural and the other industrial. Among the projects these missions are supposed to work on are a stadium, theater, hospital and "exhibition halls."

Significantly, the commission's report included favorable comments about the Soviet constitution. . . . The approving words for the Russian "constitution" were alibied by Mr. Luce's Fortune mag: "Actually, no sinister meaning should be read into this footnote; a group of careful scholars are duly noting a novel idea turned up in the course of diligent research—nothing more, nothing less." Fortune, incidentally, blessed the commission as "a distinguished group of American thinkers, in an important, balanced, meaty, difficult document, discusses the need for a more responsible press."

Despite the mag's medal for the commission (after its report was made public) Mr. Luce declared in an interview with Frank Hughes that out of the commission's twelve members, there were several—maybe four—of whose personal integrity he had no doubt whatsoever. Luce added: "There were a couple who could be seduced, if they hadn't already been, but I trusted the integrity of the others to hold them in line."

Hunters Open Chase For Bucks

By Jim Riley

Deer Season Opens Today! Nothing else matters — not in the least.

An army will take to the woods in the Pocono Mountains and surrounding territories today in quest of the mighty buck — the brown kind with four legs, not the lettuce-colored stuff that often is less valuable.

Many schools will close for the day and many workers will report off "sick" from their jobs.

Ill grandmothers, failure of the car to start and just plain "gone hunting" will be causes for absences in business, school, factory and what have you.

The only catch is the fact that the mighty antlered buck won't be as plentiful today as he has been for the past several months.

He will suddenly leave his regular haunts in fields along our major roads to spots deep in the woods. Hunting season is upon us — and deer just happen to know these things.

Mrs. Albert Coates, a resident of Stroudsburg's Thomas St., recently had an article published in "Business Education World Magazine." She also had an article published in another magazine last year.

Mrs. Coates is the commercial teacher at Pocono High School, Tannersville.

Doug and Doris Schoonover, of 216 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg, were present at the Army-Navy football game on Saturday.

Doug is a teacher at East Stroudsburg Junior High and varsity basketball coach at the High school. Doris owns one of the pleasing voices that says "number please" when you make a telephone call.

Mrs. Helen Robbins, McMichaels, is currently a patient at the Monroe County General Hospital.

Mrs. Robbins was admitted on Friday night.

Mrs. Helen Felix is Dean of Women at Lycoming College.

She was Helen Mays when she graduated from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College in May of 1934.

Miss Janet Sampson, a May 1953 graduate of ESSTC, is currently teaching in the elementary school at Bound Brook, N.J.

Janet is also a former house-mother at the Indian Queen Hotel, where many of the college girls live during the school year.

Harry Albert, popular Stroudsburg insurance agent, braved Friday's cold breezes without a top coat.

"It's okay," he said. "I've got insurance."

—by Walter Winchell

Significantly, the commission's report included favorable comments about the Soviet constitution. . . . The approving words for the Russian "constitution" were alibied by Mr. Luce's Fortune mag: "Actually, no sinister meaning should be read into this footnote; a group of careful scholars are duly noting a novel idea turned up in the course of diligent research—nothing more, nothing less." (Ha!)

Fortune, incidentally, blessed the commission as "a distinguished group of American thinkers, in an important, balanced, meaty, difficult document, discusses the need for a more responsible press."

Despite the mag's medal for the commission (after its report was made public) Mr. Luce declared in an interview with Frank Hughes that out of the commission's twelve members, there were several—maybe four—of whose personal integrity he had no doubt whatsoever. Luce added: "There were a couple who could be seduced, if they hadn't already been, but I trusted the integrity of the others to hold them in line."

Well Drillers Must Obtain License

STATE DEPARTMENT of Internal Affairs representatives said yesterday that all water well drillers in Pennsylvania must be licensed under an act of the General Assembly which was passed June 1.

The new law, known as the Water Drillers License Act, defines and provides for the licensing of water well drillers, prevention of pollution of underground waters, confers powers and imposes duties on the Internal Affairs Department and prescribes penalties and fees.

Department spokesmen said a number of well drillers operating in Monroe and surrounding counties are not yet licensed under the act and said they face prosecution unless they comply with the law.

Purpose of the act is to assure development of the water resources in an orderly and reasonable manner, without waste, in order to assure sufficient supplies for continued population growth and industrial development of the Commonwealth.

Internal Affairs
Well drillers may obtain the licenses from the Department of Internal Affairs in Harrisburg.

The law also stipulates that each piece of drilling equipment shall require a separate permit, which the rig operator must have in his possession at all times the equipment is in operation. The permit number must be painted on the rig in characters at least two inches high.

Within 24 hours of making a contract—written or verbal—to drill a well, the drilling contractor shall file with the state geologist in Harrisburg a notice of intention to drill which shall contain various information about the job, together with a sketch location of the proposed well to enable the department representative to inspect the well.

The state geologist may require that samples of cuttings or drillings be saved for study by the department, and under certain circumstances the department may make additional inspections and tests on any well.

A record of every well drilled and a log of every well must be kept by the drilling contractor, showing the kinds, types, and footages of strata penetrated, the exact well construction as to diameter and lengths of well casings installed, whether cemented in or not, size and length of well screens, the geology of the well, the hydrology of the well, the pump data, the quality, chemical, biological analysis, etc., of the water, the use of well, sketch and description of the well location, date of completion, show the drilling contractor's name and license number, the well owner's name and address. The above record of each well is to be kept by the licensed drilling contractor for a period of ten years after completion of the well.

When a well is to be abandoned, a notice of intent to abandon must be sent to the department at least 10 days before the well is sealed or filled.

Under section 11 of the act, and various other sections, the General Assembly has prescribed penalties in the form of fines, imprisonment, loss of license and drilling permits, etc., for violation and conviction of the terms of the act.

The "Water Well Drillers License Act" is being handled by the Department of Internal Affairs, Genevieve Blatt, secretary, and the Bureau of Topographic and Geological Survey, Carlyle Gray, state geologist, Harrisburg.

E. R. Bush, of Stroudsburg, and Henry K. Troeller, of Effort, are members of the Pennsylvania Water Well Contractors Assn. and officers of Eastern District No. 6. The association is cooperating with the state in acquainting well drillers with provisions of the new law.

Shawnee Inn Adds To Regular Staff

SHAWNEE—ON DELAWARE—Paul C. Grant was added to the permanent staff of Shawnee Inn recently as reservations manager, taking on full time duties—a new phase in the operation of this Summer resort.

Weldon S. Garrison, General Manager, announced that this change in policy has been made in consideration of the fact that the plans for the enlargement of Fred Warburg's popular hostelry in the Poconos warrant this expansion. Now management, sales, and reservations departments function on a full year's program.

Grant, just recently discharged from two years service in the U.S. Army, comes to Shawnee Inn with a well diversified background in hotel operation. Stemming originally from Birmingham, Mich., his activities have taken him to Bryce Lodge, Bryce Canyon, Utah, where he gained considerable knowledge in front office and reservation procedure. Still more first-hand information on food cost and preparation was gained at Cedar Lodge in Northport Point, Mich.

Major Grant, a graduate of Michigan State University, majored in Hotel Administration and while there served as Assistant Manager at "Kellogg Center For Continuing Education."

Part of his duties at Shawnee Inn during the Winter months will be the continuation of public relations with members of the Travel Associations in the eastern part of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant have established residence in East Stroudsburg.

Supervising Principal Speaks At Inservice Meeting Held At Pen Argyl High School

PEN ARGYL—An inservice training meeting was held Thursday in the library of the Pen Argyl High School.

Dr. William E. Muth, supervising principal, led the discussion with a talk on "Russian Scientists." Dr. Muth made mention that the development of scientists in the United States is gradually slipping behind that of Russia.

One reason for this, he added, may possibly be due to the positive communistic approach in the Russian public schools in that they are directed in their various courses of study.

Also taking part in the program were Mrs. Myrtle Easton who spoke on "Discipline Problems." She added that fortunately less than two percent of the school populace make up this group.

Willard Schadel spoke on "The Shortage of Scientists in Our Country," and he attributed the shortage to the system by which the student is able to choose his own course of study and many times the student is taking the easier course.

Topic

Marcus Stopp lectured on "Education In the South," in which he stated that many southern educators are in favor of a two-school system but not black-and-white schools, but rather an integration of the races and two schools divided according to academic standards. Wilmer Nestor followed with a talk on "Modern Education," and Mrs. Dorothy Stopp spoke on "European Schools." Mrs. Stopp, who has traveled extensively in France, Germany, Holland and Belgium, reported that in most cases the European schools are far ahead of the American schools. She stated that in France, the children begin their school days when they are three years old and by the time they are seven they are capable of writing lengthy essays.

Dr. Muth concluded the discussion with a firm reminder that however difficult it may seem, "we must not lower our academic standards."

Scouts Hold Honor Court

SCOUT TROOP 97, Grace Lutheran Church, held a court of honor last Thursday night at the church. Boys honored officially were: John Baird, Kenney Miller and Alan Reader, all for fireman's merit badges; Kenney Miller, a three-year pin and Harold Kimball, a one-year pin.

Scoutmaster Herman Meinhardt is the Scoutmaster of the troop. Members of the troop committee are Stanley Melvin, chairman, and David Miller, J. H. Kunkle and David Bernbaum.

Raymond Poortstra, acting for Francis B. McGarry, chairman of organization and extension in the Pocono district, presented awards.

Concrete should be used for Pennsylvania's part of the National System of Interstate Highways

This state's part of the National System of Interstate Highways is a vital link in a road system that reaches every state in the Union, 42 state capitals and 182 of the 199 cities with a population of over 50,000. The map above shows this 41,000-mile network. These are the interstate routes authorized by Congress and selected by the Bureau of Public Roads and the various state highway departments. Although comprising only 1% of the total road mileage in the country, these key routes carry over 20% of the rural traffic.

These roads are essential to the smooth and economical flow of commerce; the swift movement of men and material in defense; the quick and efficient evacuation of cities in emergencies and the safe, comfortable and enjoyable travel of motorists.

The sections of the heavily-traveled Interstate System in this state should be paved with the longest-lasting, most economical pavement—Concrete. Concrete is moderate in first cost, requires little maintenance and lasts a lifetime. Result: low-annual-cost service.

And concrete is the safe pavement. Its gritty texture permits quicker, safer stops, wet or dry. And its light-colored surface reflects more light at night, providing better nighttime visibility.

Ninety per cent of the cost of these highways will be borne by the Federal Government, but the state must maintain them. The logical choice under these conditions is durable, low-maintenance-cost concrete.

Rev. Park Instituted As Priest Of Christ Episcopal Church Parish

By Paul Carlson
BEAUTY AND DIGNITY yesterday marked the service at which Rev. Charles A. Park was instituted as priest and rector of Christ Episcopal Church parish in Stroudsburg.

At the same time, five adults and four children were confirmed by the Rt. Rev. Frederick J. Warnecke, bishop of the Diocese of Bethlehem.

Mr. Park came to Stroudsburg Sept. 1 to succeed Rev. Thomas Shoemith, who retired as rector July 1, after 29 years service at the local church.

Bishop Warnecke opened the impressive institution rites by reading the Letter of Institution to the new rector and the congregation.

Wording
"To our well-beloved in Christ, Charles A. Park, presbyter, greeting," the bishop began—the words sounding unmistakably similar to those one finds in reading a salutation in one of the letters of St. Paul.

"We do by these presents give and grant unto you, in whose learning, diligence, sound doctrine and prudence, we do fully confide," the bishop continued, "our license and authority to perform the office of a priest in the parish of Christ Church . . .

"And as a canonically instituted priest into the office of rector of Christ Church Parish, you are faithfully to feed that portion of the flock of Christ which is now intrusted to you; not as a man-pleaser, but as continually bearing in mind that you are accountable to us here, and to the Chief Bishop and Sovereign Judge of all, hereafter," the prelate continued.

"And the Lord hath ordained that they who serve at the altar should live of the things belonging to the altar," Bishop Warnecke stressed.

As he finished reading the Letter of Institution, the prelate declared: "In witness whereof, we have hereunto affixed our episcopal seal and signature at Stroudsburg, this second day of December, 1956, A.D., and in the fourth year of our consecration."

Then the senior warden of the Christ Church vestry, Arthur B. Grotz, stepped forward, accompanied by Dr. John Rumsey, junior warden, to announce: "In the name and behalf of Christ Church Parish, I do receive and acknowledge you, the Rev. Charles A. Park, as priest and rector of the same; and in token thereof, give into your hands the keys of this church."

After Bishop Warnecke offered prayers to each Member of the Trinity on behalf of the new rector and the congregation, Mr. Park knelt before the altar to present supplication for himself.

"O Lord my God," he began, "I am not worthy that Thou shouldst come under my roof; yet Thou hast honored Thy servant with appointing him to stand in Thy House, and serve at Thy holy Altar."

To Thee and to Thy service I devote myself, body, soul and spirit, with all their powers and faculties," he pledged. "Fill my memory with the words of Thy Law; enlighten my understanding with the illumination of the Holy Ghost, and may all the wishes and desires of my will center in what Thou hast commanded."

Then the newly-instituted rector prayed for the congregation that "with one heart they may desire the prosperity of Thy holy Apostolic Church, and with one mouth may profess the Faith once delivered to the Saints."

"Defend them from the sins of heresy and schism; let not the foot of pride come nigh to hurt them, nor the hand of the ungodly to cast them down," Mr. Park petitioned. "And grant that the course of this world may be so peaceably ordered . . . that Thy Church may joyfully serve Thee in all godly quietness; that so they may walk in the ways of truth and peace, and at last be numbered with Thy saints in glory everlasting."

In his sermon which followed, Bishop Warnecke likened the relationship of a priest and his parish to Christian marriage.

Both the rector and the congregation must be committed to each other, the prelate stressed.

Early Days
The early days of a cleric's ministry are similar to the "honeymoon," he explained. However, it is in the continuing relationship that real love between the pastor and parish develops.

Expressing the hope that Mr. Park's ministry at Christ Church will continue indefinitely, the bishop urged the congregation to remember that the new rector was not a "hired man"—but "God's man."

Earlier in the service, Bishop Warnecke confirmed the following persons into membership: Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Smith, Mrs. Somerville Nicholson, Mrs. Robert Eastwick, Mrs. Warren Thorne, Paul Barnes, Judy Jordan, Douglas Kilson and John Taylor.

Standing before the confirmation class, Mr. Park announced: "Reverend Father in God, I present unto you these persons to receive the laying-on of hands."

After affirming their Christian faith, those who were to be confirmed knelt before the bishop.

As Bishop Warnecke placed his hands on each new member, he prayed: "Defend, O Lord, this Thy child with Thy heavenly grace; that he may continue Thine forever; and daily increase in Thy Holy Spirit more and more until he come unto Thy everlasting kingdom."

Remarks
In his brief remarks following the confirmation rites, the prelate told the new members that the Christian life is similar to a package of garden seeds.

"They have the possibility of becoming," he explained.

"We have planted a spiritual seed," he continued, "but the flowering is not today."

The seeds have to be planted, watered, and weeded, he continued, if God is to give an increase.

Yesterday's special service opened with the lighting of the Advent wreath—a tradition which finds its origin in the pagan Germanic worship of the sun.

Originally, the rite symbolized the victory of the sun over the powers of night, it was explained.

District Meeting Held By Eagles

DISTRICT 11 Eagles held their meeting yesterday at the Stroudsburg Aerie.

Stroudsburg president Truman Burnett welcomed delegates and opened the meeting. Burnett then turned the chair over to district president Harold Kane of Easton. More than 100 persons attended the meeting.

The roll call showed Allentown had sent three delegates; Bethlehem, two; Kutztown, three; Freeland, two; Kutztown, one; Lehigh, three and Stroudsburg, 21.

Suggestion
A suggestion that the June zone meeting be changed from two days to one day was made by Les Voss of the Stroudsburg aerie. Morgan Kemmerer, Lehigh State trustee, discussed progress since the Indianapolis convention.

State chaplain Ernest Ridgway, Stroudsburg, described the membership campaign carried out by the local chapter. He said the next initiation meeting will be held on Dec. 18. He urged all aeries to hold organized membership drives, pointing out that the Stroudsburg aerie now has 3,800 members.

Among the guest speakers was Roy Rhode, past grand worthy president of the Eagles, from Peoria, Ill., who was an honored guest at the conference.

IN THE 'VANGUARD'—Dr. John Hagan, director of the earth satellite project "Vanguard," sketches an outline of the moon's orbit as he shows the first full-scale model of the satellite in Washington, D. C. Model is 20 inches in diameter.

GIGANTIC 'GESUNDHEIT'—Those two out of every ten Americans suffering from hay fever can be glad that the villainous ragweed pollen isn't as large as this model one at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry. The model is approximately 75,000 times actual size. It is part of display.

DIGGING INTO THE PAST—This is a general view of the floor of Russell cave, near Bridgeport, Ala., where archeologists, assisted by skilled coal miners, are excavating into the lives of Americans of 8,000 years ago. Because cave dwellers were poor housekeepers and buried their litter under fresh layers of earth, the story of their lives is as easily read as the rings of an old tree.

KEEPS IT SIMPLE—Hollywood's Virginia Mayo is a devotee of the simple sheath dress and considers it a must. She uses several wool jersey sheaths of the same pattern, but in different colors. She can dress them "up" with jewelry or "down" with cardigans.

SWITZERLAND IN MINIATURE—Much of the village life of Switzerland is compressed into this street scene in Saanen, in the Bernese Alps country. Here are the sturdy chalets, the thrifty, hard-working peasants and those ever present goats. The highest point in the Bernese Alps is Finsteraarhorn, a mountain stretching 14,026 feet into the sky. This south-central area of Switzerland includes the cantons of Bern, Valais and Uri.

HIGH'S THE LIMIT—Colombia's new "autopista" running from Bogota to the city of Chia, 15 miles away, has no speed limit and more than 110,000 cars, buses and trucks take advantage of it every month. The road is 10,000 feet high in the Andes. Toll is seven cents.

After that, the kids thought nothing of his blindness. Craig runs rather than walks, swings, rides the teeter-totter and even draws. Some have trouble keeping up with him.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Among the welter of Christmas programs and Christmas parties, grab bags, mitten trees, baskets and bundles, the club women are going to have to keep a check list of what they're supposed to take where and whether they've seen this program at another meeting.

One simplification which I applaud is the exchange of programs between the Junior and Senior Women's Clubs. The Junior Woman's Club is preparing the December program for both clubs, a choral presentation with narration of "Christmas in Music." The senior Woman's Club is preparing the January program which is a pantomime pageant of the history of the Woman's Club.

For those groups, it's an excellent idea since no one can be both a senior and a junior woman at the same time. Many of the other clubs have their memberships so mixed up that you might have some members seeing the same program five times.

However, there are other groups who might profit by such an interchange of programs; PTA group parties, and church plays, for example.

Besides the fact that it would save program chairmen a lot of headaches and stretch the talent and hard work which go into the original production to serve three or four groups, just think how it would conserve space on the social page to be able to write: "As for the program, see issue of Dec. 10" or whatever.

Holiday Plans Are Made By Crusaders

Bartonville — Singing of Christmas carols opened the meeting of the Crusader class of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School of the parish house on Friday night, November 30. Chaplain Haviland Heller conducted a Bible study from the first book of Timothy.

Mrs. Beatrice Swink presided at the business session when many plans for the holiday season were discussed. Reports were presented by Mrs. Joseph Dunbar, Mrs. Russell Bond, Robert Field and Haviland Heller.

It was decided to present a Christmas program and gifts for the guests at the Monroe County Home, Kellersville, on Sunday afternoon, December 16. Program planning committee appointed was Mrs. Robert Field, Mrs. Haviland Heller and Mrs. Verdon Frailey. Mrs. Joseph Dunbar will be in charge of gifts.

Plans were made for the Junior Crusader Christmas party to be held at the parish house on Friday night, December 14, at 7:30. Parents are asked to note the change is for December only and was made so that conflicting activities would not keep children from attending. There will be no exchange of gifts. Instead each family is asked to contribute a pair of mittens for the "Mitten Tree." These will be given to a worthy cause. Each family is requested to contribute some food towards the refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. David Hall will present an illustrated Bible study and Haviland Heller will show colored slides of past Christmas programs.

The Crusader class Christmas party will be held on Friday night, December 21. It was voted to not exchange gifts this year but to contribute the amount they would have spent for a gift, or more if they so desire, to a Sunday school building fund. Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, pickles, tea and coffee will be served and all Crusaders are asked to bring something toward the buffet lunch.

All class members were requested to donate ornaments for the parish house and church Christmas trees if it is possible for them to do so.

Mrs. Joseph Dunbar and Emma Dunbar were named hostesses for the January meeting of the class.

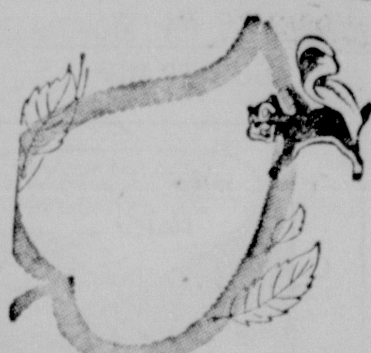

Refreshments of ice cream, cake, candy, pretzels and beverages were served. Table decorations were in the Christmas motif featuring a gumdrop tree. Hostesses were Mrs. Beatrice Swink and Mrs. Robert Field.

Places of historic interest were visited by the group by way of colored slides shown by Haviland Heller.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Haviland Heller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Field, Mr. and Mrs. Verdon Frailey, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Possinger, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar, Mrs. Beatrice Swink, Mrs. Russell Bond, Emma Dunbar, Dorothy Possinger, Nancy Possinger, James Possinger, Ronald Swink, John Field and Thomas Field.

ROBERT LUPCHO, former two-sport star for Green-Dreher High School and Wyoming Seminary, is a member of the Colgate University freshman basketball team.

Playing on a losing team has its compensation. First it was Ron Jacoby, Lehighite back, who was inquired about by Syracuse University, and now the Navy—the academy, of course—are beckoning Tom Wolfe and Bill Hoffman, two Indian backs. Tom and Bill were guests of Annapolis officials at Saturday's Army-Navy 7-7 thriller.

Accidents are taking their toll of former area football stars. Not too long ago former Wilson High three-sport star, Don Price, gave his life in a freak plane mishap at the Air Force Base at Lincoln, Neb., and yesterday John Polzer, ex-line great under Andy Leh at Nazareth High died of injuries suffered in a car accident in Virginia.

Price, who joined the Air Force after leaving Wilson, was considered one of the greatest backs ever to come out of the Eastern suburban school. He could kick, average over 40 yards per pass (could throw ten a country mile), and run (his score of touchdowns noted).

Polzer, who went to Blair Academy and then to Virginia University attained stardom as a guard at both institutions. Last year he gained All-American honors at Virginia.

If all things materialize, Marty Baldwin will have a bowl-flavored taste at his Football and Basketball Coaches Clinic at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College this June.

A new instructor will be Floyd (Ben) Schwartzwalder, head football coach at Syracuse University, whose Orange eleven Saturday accepted a bid to play in the Cotton Bowl. Another probable is Bowden Wyatt whose Tennessee Volunteers are headed for the Sugar Bowl, undefeated and rated No. 2 in the nation behind Oklahoma's Sooners.

Baldwin also announced that high school and college coaches who attend the clinic as "pupils" have asked for the return of Frank Regan, who led Villanova University's grid team to its first winning season this year in a long while.

Bob Miksy, the court all-star from Palmerton High, showed he hasn't lost any of his scoring touch when he dumped in 25 tallies to lead Win Evans' quintet to an easy win over Allentown Central Catholic in the season's opener last Friday.

Miksy and his mates will be in Stroudsburg Jan. 11 to take on John Kupiec's Mountaineer five in a Lehigh Valley League dual. The Blue Bombers, winners of the finals in the 1956 PIAA basketball playoffs, are heavily favored to repeat as LVL champions.

Doug Schonover, East Stroudsburg High's new head basketball coach, had himself a busy Friday night and Saturday, Friday, the Cavaliers mentor journeyed to Catasauqua to scout Fountain Hill against the Rough Riders, and early Saturday morning, he left for Philadelphia to be among the 107,000 jammed in Municipal Stadium to watch the Army-Navy gridiron classic.

Joe Heard, the former Bangor High athlete, will be at starting guard on the Moravian College basketball team this season. Heard, also a star centerfielder for the Greyhound diamond edition, has been one of the key men in the Moravian basketball picture the three years.

While not a prolific scorer, Heard has been responsible for the Harvey Gillespie-coached team in attaining better-than-average records the past two years, with his play-making ability.

Oscar J. Liljenstein, veteran head of the department of health and physical education at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, will start a sabbatical leave after the Christmas holidays.

Liljenstein, who also doubles as director of athletics at the hill school, will tour the south and later go abroad for a trip through England and the Scandinavian countries.

ESSTC Five Bows To Millersville Teachers, 80-63

Marauders' Control Of Banks, Warriors' Miscues Difference

EAST STROUDSBURG State Teachers College found out that non-control of the backboards and sloppy ball-handling is not conducive to winning basketball Saturday night as the Warriors went down to a 80-63 defeat at the hands of Millersville STC in the Normal Hillers gymnasium.

Despite a 32-point scoring performance by Dave (Kelly) McLaughlin, ESSTC was only in the ball game in the first 10 minutes of the fray as the invading Marauders came on to post their 43rd consecutive Pennsylvania Teachers College win in the seasons opener for both schools before 500 fans.

Tabs 32 Points

Dave (Kelly) McLaughlin

The Warriors hope to regain winning form today when they take on Wilkes College at Wilkes-Barre in the first of two games this week on the road. Wednesday night, East Stroudsburg invades Scranton for a tussle with the Royals of Scranton University.

Saturday night, East Stroudsburg had their troubles as 6-6 John Parker and 6-5 Jim Bishop controlled both banks to keep the charges of Jim Reed to practically a one-shot per maneuver.

Lose Ball 28 Times

In between the Marauders' control of the boards, the Warriors helped matters along by losing the ball 28 times in the first half and 12 in the second.

Parker, who even looks taller than his 6-6 billing, picked off the majority of the r-bounds both on the offensive (ESSTC got only three in the first half) and defensive boards, balanced his work with a 16-point output. Charley German, who played the human skyscraper for the most part and gave away four or five inches in height, matched the Marauder with his 16 tallies.

For the first 10 minutes it looked like Reed's boys might pull out an upset as McLaughlin, the soft-touch shot artist, and German, the former Whitehall ace, matched the visitors practically point for point.

Cy Williams, who garnered 16 for the night, shot Millersville ahead 1-0 on a foul and Bishop, who ended up with 10 for the evening, pushed them ahead 3-0 on a tap-in. But Kelly-boy span one through and added a foul to tie it up.

Reg Rife, Millersville's top scorer in its inaugural with 17, led a short attack that gave them a 11-5 advantage before German drove in for two Burke throw in a set and McLaughlin tied it at 11-all with a jump shot.

Warriors Lead

Carl Wigner sent the Warriors ahead for the first time 14-11 with a spinner and a foul before two Parker tap-ins and a Tony DePhillipo double-decker off a rebound regained the lead for the Millersville squad.

However, at this point, a McLaughlin jump and two free throws offset a pair of fouls by Parker to give Reed's buds the lead (20-19) for the last time.

2nd Add — Marauders' Warner Williams, a jumping bean with a slick pair of hands, put on a star-billing show to combine with Parker and Bishop taps to shoot Millersville into a 35-20 van before German drove in for the first East Stroudsburg points in six minutes. Shortly after Williams dunked a goal and Rife a foul for a 38-22 halftime spread.

The second half Millersville was content to hold the big bulge accumulated in the first 20 minutes. However, two straight dunks by McLaughlin and a German steal cut the visitors margin to 42-30.

This was as close the Warriors got as Reed kept trying to find the right combination by inserting his entire reserve corps. At one point the substitutions were coming and going so fast that ESSTC played with four men on the floor for nearly a minute.

Warrior JVs Lose

In the preliminary contest, the ESSTC jayvees of Eugene Martin dropped a 50-43 decision to the Oxford (N.J.) Lions.

Lefty Spittle, a minor league baseball hurler by trade, led the Lions winners with 20 markers, while Glen Dunbar topped the Little Warriors with 10.

Cone Favored

Heats will be held in another event in which the U. S. has an excellent chance, the women's 100 meter butterfly event, where Carin Cone, the pretty Ridgewood, N. J., schoolgirl, is the favorite.

The only swimming final tomorrow is the men's 800-meter relay in which each competitor swims 200 meters. Japan made the best time in the preliminaries for this event, followed by the U. S. The battle for first place is expected to center between these two nations, with Australia, Great Britain and Russia also in contention.

Heats also will be held tomorrow in the men's 200-meter breaststroke. The U. S. doesn't even have an entry in this event.

Navy's Shun Of Bowl Bid, Army Bobbles Top Topics

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2 (AP)—Navy's rejection of a Cotton Bowl trip within its grasp and Army fumbles that cost an upset victory today were hot topics in the wake of the annual service football classic.

"A tie is always unsatisfactory," was Army Coach Earl Blaik's summation of the 7-7 tie which unfolded before 102,000 fans at giant Municipal Stadium yesterday.

Navy, knocked off stride by the quick-charging Cadet line and apparently beaten 7-0, converted a fumble by the underdogs into the tying score midway of the final period.

Halfback Ned Oldham's conversion assured the Middies' best record since 1945 (7-1-1).

The Cotton Bowl President Robert Cullum made his offer in the dressing room immediately after the game. Just as quickly Rear Admiral W. R. Smedberg said no in one of the most unpopular decisions in American naval history.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz didn't try to hide his disappointment. Neither did the players whose quiet remarks made their feelings plain enough.

The plain fact is the admiral and other high naval officials concluded that Navy, which finished its season with one loss, six victories and two ties, had beaten itself out of a bowl shot with its showing.

"The admiral told the squad he did not think in the best interest of the Navy to accept a bowl bid after the tie," said Capt. Elliott Loughlin, director of athletics at Annapolis.

Army beat itself out of a chance to post its second successive upset triumph over the Middies by fumbles — the frustrating pops of the ball which had plagued the Cadets all year.

Lions Gain NFL Western Lead, Giants Up Spread In East Loop

Layne Leads Detroit

DETROIT, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Detroit Lions smashed the Chicago Bears' double barreled offense today, 42-10, and won the bruising battle for first place in the National Football League's Western Division.

A savage mixture of powerful backs and Bobby Layne's pinpoint passing, nearly swept the vaunted Bears out of Briggs Stadium before a crowd of 57,021.

The Lions led all the way as they brushed past the Bears in the division race. It was by far their most important—and most decisive—victory in a tremendous comeback year. Detroit shut out the Chicago club in the second half while rolling up 28 points and losing two other scoring opportunities on fumbles.

The Lions hold a half-game edge going into the final two weeks of the hectic campaign. They must tangle with the Bears again Dec. 16 in Chicago in the final contest.

Layne, the blond Texan whose passing has been running hot and cold all year, passed for two of the second-half touchdowns that overwhelmed the Bears in the third period. End Dave Middleton worked his way behind J.C. Caroline at the Chicago 15 to grab a Layne pass and sprint into the end zone.

Early in the final period, Layne spotted Middleton, Jim Doran and Gene Godman for three passes that covered all of a 65-yard drive. A 9-yard pass to Godman was good for the touchdown.

Detroit piled across two more touchdowns in the fourth quarter, with second string quarterback Harry Gilmer throwing to Middleton for an 18-yard touchdown pass and reserve fullback Bill Bowman plunging over from the 3.

Chicago Bears scoring—Touchdowns: Casares (5, pass-run from Blanda); Field Goal: Blanda (11). Conversion—Blanda.

Detroit scoring—Touchdowns: Godman 2 (1, plunge; 9, pass-run from Layne); Layne (13, run); Middleton 2 (48, pass-run from Layne; 18, pass-run from Gilmer); Bowman (3, plunge). Conversions—Layne 6.

Polzer, 23, suffered severe brain injuries in the accident on U. S. 29 near Livingston, Va., and never regained consciousness. He had been near death since he was brought to the hospital before dawn yesterday.

Polzer, whose home was in Nazareth, Pa., was captain of Virginia's 1955 football team. He had been considered one of the university's finest linemen of the post-war era after starring as a sophomore in 1953 and as a junior in 1954.

Polzer who finished his sports eligibility last year, was attending the university to finish work on his degree and expected to receive it in June.

Revenge For New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—The New York Giants turned the tables on the Washington Redskins today.

Waloped 33-7 by the Skins in Washington several weeks ago, the Giants struck swiftly for two touchdowns before the Skins ran a play from scrimmage and went on for a decisive 28-11 victory that strengthened their hold on first place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League. The Giants can now clinch the division title by beating Cleveland next week.

The hard running of Frank Gifford and the passing of Chuck Conery spelled the end of Washington's five game winning streak before 45,351 at Yankee Stadium.

Gifford, a hefty 205-pounder from Southern California, scored three touchdowns for 18 points to equal a Giant record. He made 108 yards on 19 carries from scrimmage and to vary the script threw a 29-yard touchdown pass to Ken MacAfee for the Giants' first touchdown.

Gifford scored two of his touchdowns on runs of six and eleven and the other on a 14-yard pass from Conery.

Washington Scoring — Touchdowns: Mellinger (6, pass); Paluck (7, run). Conversions: Baker 2.

New York Scoring—Touchdowns: MacAfee (29, pass); Gifford 3 (16, run; 14, pass; 11, run). Conversions: Agajanian 4.

Packers Upset Cards

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Tobin Rote's passing wizardry and three touchdown sneaks in the last half — his last one in the final minute of play — today gave the Green Bay Packers an uphill 24-21 victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

The defeat, coming after the Cards had gone ahead on a 60-yard scoring drive 21-7 in the last 3½ minutes, all but dropped them out of contention in the Eastern Division of the National Football League. They now have a 6-4 record and trail the New York Giants, who defeated Washington 28-14 today, by 1½ games with two more to play.

Green Bay Scoring—Touchdowns: Rote 3 (2, sneak; 1, sneak; 1, sneak). Field Goal: Cone (34). Conversions: Cone 3.

Cardinals Scoring—Touchdowns: Boydston (16, pass from Rote); Matson 2, 8, run; 1, plunge). Conversions: Summerlat 3.

Shippensburg Dominates State Teachers All-Star Grid Team

STC's Merring, Oplinger Gain Spots On 2nd Eleven; Four Other Warriors Cited

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. Three Shippensburg players feature the sixth annual Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges Football Conference all star team selected by the coaches. George Hruboucek at tackle and Jack Conner at halfback, both of Aliquippa, and Joe Perispunko, of Williamsport, at center, are the Shippensburg gridders selected by the ten coaches who cast ballots.

Norman Lewandowski, of Dorn, Indiana's ace passer, is the only repeat performer on the all star team. Norm became the first STC player to make the first team three years in succession. He barely nosed out James Oplinger of East Stroudsburg for the post.

Oplinger, along with Co-Captain Dick Merring gained spots in the second team backfield. Oplinger, a quarterback in Eugene Martin's attack all season, and Merring, owner of two 98-yard scoring gallops during the year, were two of the main reasons East Stroudsburg ended up with a fine 7-2 log for the campaign just passed.

Honorable Mention
Other Warriors cited and given honorable mention were End A Hoffman, Co-captain and tackle John Andrews, tackle Walt Bjorn, and center Warren Davis.

Joe Chibbert of West Chester and Joe Perispunko of Shippensburg returned to the first team selections after a year's absence. Both had been selected on the first team in 1954.

Jack Conner, who set a conference scoring record, and George Dintiman, Lock Haven's scoring back, shared equal number of points as the most popular vote-getters. First team selections:

Penn State Hits Attendance Mark

UNIVERSITY PARK — Penn State's football team played before more people in 1956 than ever before in its history.

Even though home attendance was approximately 7,000 under last year's total for four games, excellent attendance on the road boosted the nine-game total to a record 32,708.

An all-time Penn State single game high of 82,000-plus at Ohio State, more than 51,000 at Pittsburgh, and a new series high of 37,000-plus at Syracuse, accounted for the record total.

On the home grounds, Holy Cross, West Virginia, Boston University and North Carolina State attracted 104,508 in 1956 as compared with the four-game centennial year total of 112,041 in 1955.

Elliot Rehired As PCL Manager

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 2 (AP)—Bob Elliott, former major league baseball player, was rehired for a second season as manager of the San Diego Pacific Coast League club.

Ralph Kiner, general manager, disclosed the decision. The San Diego club has entered into a working agreement with the Cleveland Indians and this had raised the question of whether Elliott would be replaced for the 1957 season.

He finished off his playing career with San Diego in 1953 and managed the club last year.

Virginia Tech has had only 12 losing football seasons out of 63.

Two County Women Receive Benefits

ACCORDING to a report submitted by Harry R. Peterman, District Manager of the Eastern Social Security office, two Monroe County residents are among the first to receive benefits under the recent amendments to the social security law which lowered the qualifying age for women to 62.

One of the first social security payments to a wife under age 65 will be made today to Mrs. Julia A. Hill, wife of Clarence R. Hill, of East Stroudsburg. Ordinarily, if a wife waits until she is age 65 she will receive the full wife's pension which is one-half of the amount of her husband's pension. Those women who elect to receive their benefits prior to age 65 will have their share reduced by 25/36 of one percent for each month that they are under age 65.

In the case of Mrs. Hill she will receive benefits for 10 months before her 65th birthday. The reduction in her benefit rate will therefore be about seven percent. This reduction will continue for the rest of her life. It should be noted, however, that as the wife of a retired beneficiary if you choose a reduced benefit at any age between 62 and 65 you will be ahead for the first 12 years. If the reduced benefit rate is paid for more than 12 years the total amount received would not be as large as if the claimant filed at age 65 for the higher benefit. In the case of Mrs. Hill she elected to receive the seven percent reduction and as such she immediately qualified for benefits.

Reminder

As manager of the Eastern District office Peterman wishes to remind all persons that the election to receive a reduced benefit rate or wait until age 65 is strictly up to the individual. Among the first of the working women to qualify for benefits was Mrs. Arlene Young, a Stroudsburg resident for many years. As in the case of Mrs. Hill, the benefits of Mrs. Young will also be reduced. The amount of the reduction, however, is slightly less being 5/9 of one percent for each month under age 65.

Generally speaking, a working woman choosing to take payments before reaching 65, the amount of the monthly benefit will be reduced. The amount of the reduction depends on the number of months before reaching age 65 that the individual starts getting benefits. If benefits start at 62 the amount of each month's payments will be 80 percent of what would be the case at 65. If a person waits until their 63rd birthday the amount of the benefit would be 86 2/3 percent of what would be received at age 65. If a person waits until age 64 the amount would be 93 1/3 percent of the benefit at age 65.

In the case of Mrs. Young, who elected to choose the reduced benefit rate she will be ahead for the first 15 years. If she should receive benefits for more than 15 years, the total amount she receives will not be as large as if she had waited until age 65 to file for benefits.

One of the first women in Monroe County qualifying for widow's benefits was Mrs. Margaret M. Cyphers, widow of the late Ned A. Cyphers. Mrs. Cyphers, Stroudsburg, was 62 years of age in June of this year, since the effective date of the new law, however, is Nov. 1956, no retroactive benefits are possible. Mrs. Cyphers will receive the full widow's pension which is three-quarters of the amount established on her husband's account. Peterman further stated that Mrs. Cyphers will receive this widow's pension for the rest of her life, providing, of course, she doesn't remarry or qualify for a higher pension on her own social security account.

Peterman also wishes to remind all persons that social security records are highly confidential and that the information in this article was released only after permission was secured from the Mrs. Cyphers, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Young.

The Monroe County area is serviced by Paul Bennett, contact representative, operating out of the Eastern district office. Bennett has office hours every Tuesday and Thursday morning in the basement at Borough Hall in Stroudsburg.
